Conversation track 8, 10, 11

Fergus and Georgia are leaving a talk on AI and jobs.

Fergus: Well, that was cheery. Apparently half of us will be replaced by robots.

Georgia: I'd argue that's a bit alarmist. AI changes jobs more than it kills them.

Fergus: Tell that to translators. Or illustrators.

Georgia: True, they're getting hit hard. On the flip side, whole new roles are popping up.

Fergus: Sure, but can a fifty-year-old translator just retrain overnight?

Georgia: Not overnight, no. That's where governments and employers need to step up.

Fergus: Mate, I wouldn't hold my breath.

Georgia: Cynic! But really, it boils down to how we use it.

Fergus: Or who gets to own it. That's the real question, I reckon.

Georgia: Okay, that one calls for a drink. You're buying.

Speak Like a Native track 9

1. Mate, I wouldn't hold my breath.

change: "hold my" (mất âm d)
strong: "Mate", "wouldn't", "breath"

Giọng Úc thường đọc /eɪ/ gần như "ai": "Mate" nghe như "mait". "hold my" → "hôl-mai". Giọng hoài nghi (ý: đừng mong), xuống ở cuối.

2. I'd argue that's a bit alarmist.

linking: "I'd‿argue", "that's‿a"
change: "bit‿alarmist" (t → d nhẹ)
strong: "argue", "alarmist"

"I'd argue" → "ai-đar-giu"; giọng Mỹ: "bit alarmist" → "bi-đơ-lar-mịst". "a bit" làm lời phản bác mềm hơn.

3. On the flip side, whole new roles are popping up.

linking: "popping‿up"
weak: "the", "are"
strong: "flip side", "whole new roles"

"popping up" nối thành "pá-pi-ngắp". Ngắt nhẹ sau "On the flip side", rồi nhấn "whole new roles" vì đó là ý mới.

• Giọng Úc thường đọc /eɪ/ gần "ai" (mate, day) và không đọc /r/ sau nguyên âm (translator, overnight).
• Giọng Mỹ: t giữa hai nguyên âm, kể cả giữa hai từ, thành "d" nhẹ: bit alarmist.
• Câu mỉa mai (Well, that was cheery.) đọc giọng đều, kéo dài rồi xuống thấp.
• Khi tranh luận, ngắt nhẹ sau cụm mở đầu (I'd argue, On the flip side) rồi nhấn vào ý chính.

Role Play track 13

A: Well, that was cheery. Apparently half of us will be replaced by robots.

B: I'd argue that's _____. AI changes jobs more than it kills them.

A: Tell that to translators. Or illustrators.

B: True, they're getting hit hard. On the flip side, _____ are popping up.

A: Sure, but can a fifty-year-old translator just retrain overnight?

B: Not overnight, no. That's where governments and employers need to step up.

A: Mate, I wouldn't hold my breath.

B: Cynic! But really, it boils down to _____.

A: Or who gets to own it. That's the real question, I reckon.

B: Okay, that one calls for a drink. You're buying.

Study Notes

Tell that to translators.
Thử nói câu đó với dân dịch thuật xem.
"Tell that to + ai đó" = phản bác: những người đó sẽ không đồng ý với bạn đâu.
Cách nói tương đương: Translators would beg to differ.

That's where governments and employers need to step up.
Đó là lúc chính phủ và giới chủ phải vào cuộc.
"step up" = đứng ra nhận trách nhiệm, hành động khi cần. "That's where…" = đó chính là chỗ, là lúc…
Cách nói tương đương: That's where governments and employers come in.

Grammar Focus

Nêu lập luận: I'd argue (that)… / It boils down to…

I'd argue (that) nêu quan điểm chắc chắn mà vẫn lịch sự. It boils down to + danh từ / mệnh đề = rốt cuộc, mấu chốt là…

I'd argue that social media does more harm than good.
In the end, it boils down to money.
It all comes down to who you know.

Xét mặt khác: On the flip side… / Then again…

Đưa ra mặt ngược lại của vấn đề vừa nói. Then again = nhưng nghĩ lại thì…, dùng khi tự cân nhắc ý của chính mình.

Remote work saves time. On the flip side, it can feel lonely.
Cities are expensive. Then again, salaries are higher.

Substitution Drill track 14

1. I'd argue that's a bit alarmist.
   a. a bit simplistic
   b. an overreaction
   c. too pessimistic

2. On the flip side, whole new roles are popping up.
   a. new industries
   b. all kinds of new jobs
   c. fresh opportunities

3. But really, it boils down to how we use it.
   a. how we regulate it
   b. education and training
   c. the choices we make